

It is a wonder to me that more young girls in Honolulu do not take advantage of the household economic course at the College of Hawaii. It is true that a few of them take cooking and sewing, but little thought is given to the other subjects included in the course. One of the most advantageous is textiles. After having thoroughly gone into this theme one is not only able to knowingly select materials, but understands the conditions under which many of the materials and garments are made and has a deeper feeling for humanity. I do not believe that anyone who has completed a course in Domestic Science would buy cheap ready-made garments, for aside from the conditions under which they are made, the support of the concerns that keep the tenement dwellers as they are does not aid in the uplifting of the human race.

To the girl who expects to earn her own living, this line of study affords an abundance of opportunities. Graduates of the domestic science departments in eastern colleges have opened ten-gardens and rest rooms in the fashionable shopping districts. The majority of them, however, become teachers; some in schools, others in colleges and in hospitals. Many of the most competent seam workers are graduates of this course.

Many young ladies who have perfected themselves in domestic art, make interior decorating their business in life. Others take up costume designing. The practical advantage of this course of study was demonstrated to my satisfaction a few months ago when some young folks were planning a picnic dance; the young girls were each asked for sandwiches, a cake, or seventy-five cents. One of them, a Domestic Science teacher, brought two beautifully frosted cakes and a basket of the most delicious cookies I have ever tasted. When told that she had done more than her share, she said they had cost her not quite seventy-five cents. The young lady knew how to buy the materials and how to put them together after she had bought them.

SOCIAL NEWS OF THE DAY.

The announcement of the engagement of Miss Catherine Goodale to Lieutenant Rawson Warren of the Fifth Cavalry has caused a pleasant stir in Honolulu society.

Miss Goodale comes of old Revolutionary parentage and is an island girl. Her grandfather, Warren Goodale, was an early manager of Onomea Sugar Company on Hawaii, and one of the first members of the society of the Sons of the American Revolution in this city. Her father, Mr. W. W. Goodale, succeeded his father at Onomea and remained there until his services were secured for the management of Waialua plantation on this island. Mrs. Goodale is the daughter of the late Henry M. Whitney, a one-time postmaster general under the monarchy and later editor and manager of the Hawaiian Gazette and Advertiser.

Miss Goodale is a graduate of Oahu College and Bryn Mawr, and after completing her education spent some time travelling on the Continent before returning to her home in Honolulu.

Lieutenant Warren is from the vicinity of Pasadena, in Southern California, and is with the Fifth Cavalry at Lihue.

The College Club will hold its next regular meeting at the Colonial Hotel on Tuesday afternoon.

One of the most elaborate dinners of the Lenten season was that at the Young on Wednesday night at which Mr. John F. Hackfeld was host. The table was set in the large private dining room. The center piece was a bank of red carnations with strings of malle extending to the edge and around the table. Suspended from the chandelier were streamers of malle which ended in the four corners of the room. At each end of the table was a smaller piece which lent much to the beauty of the design. The guests were Mr. George Rodiek, Mr. F. W. Macfarlane, Mr. E. Faxon Bishop, Mr. B. F. Dillingham, Mr. Hagen, Mr. W. T. Alexander, Mr. S. M. Damon, Mr. J. A. Kennedy, Mr. H. Focke, Mr. Richard Ivers, Mr. Weinshimer, Mr. T. Clive Davies, Mr. F. Klamp, Mr. A. Haneberg, Mr. S. G. Wilder, Mr. Paul Muhlendorf, Mr. Clarence H. Cooke, Mr. George R. Carter, Mr. C. Hedemann, Mr. J. P. Cooke, Mr. E. D. Tenney, Mr. F. A. Schaefer, Mr. A. Cropp, Mr. J. M. Dowsett, Mr. W. Lanz and W. Potenhauer.

Mr. C. A. Stanton leaves on Wednesday in the Wilhelmina and takes the southern route from San Francisco. He will meet his mother in Palm Beach, Fla., and travel north with her returning to the islands several months later.

Mrs. A. A. Moore, a prominent San Francisco lady, entertained at dinner at the Alexander Young Hotel last night. The decorations were pink carnations, the scheme being carefully carried out in each detail. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. John A. McCandless, Mr. and Mrs. Barnes, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hepburn and Mrs. Weaver.

Miss Sparkey gave a golden shower dinner to a few friends at the Young last evening.
